The Telegraph Office at ~~Fedan~~ Fernhill was opened mainly for the convenience of the Palace and as such the whole or at least a substantial portion of the charges should be met from Palace funds. In Page 6 of G.M. File No 148 of 1909 it is seen that for the three years '07, '08 & '09 the Palace telegrams amounted to 107½, 427 and 178 Rs while the telegrams of all the State Departments put together amounted to only about 54, 72 & 12 Rs respectively. This shows the relative number of Palace & State telegrams

23. In the draft order it is proposed to 'debit' the charge to the head 15 (2) Town charges. This is not a charge debitable to this head. What is ~~perhaps~~ meant is perhaps that the ~~excess~~ charge may be met under the provision ~~in this~~ under 15(2) Town charges. If so, the point should be made clear.

This may be done -
